

We are proud to support LEDA and the critically important work they do for every person in our community.

We stand together with communities of color and remain committed to empowering the inherent worth and dignity of all people.

It's times like these that we must look inward, look at our own biases and prejudices, and work to eradicate them on all levels. It's only through working together and enacting widespread and deep change that we can truly heal and become better individuals, a better community, a better nation, and a better people.
